YER-ROUT! The Bethel Brave's Steve Remington is tagged out at home trying to score during last Wednesday's playoff game against Rumford Point, at the Rumford Point field. The aborted run was one of the few Brave attempts that misfired. The Bethel squad defeated Rumford Point 19-0, with 12 of those runs crossing the plate in the first inning. The playoff win left the Braves with a perfect season—a 17-0 won-lost record. (Photo by Jenna Remington)

Newry leads local towns in increase in state valuation

The Town of Newry once again led all area towns in the rate of increase in state valuation of real estate.

Preliminary figures for fiscal 1989 state valuation were made available this week. They show that Newry's valuation increased from $27,050,000 last fiscal year (fiscal 1988) to $51,100,000 this fiscal year (fiscal 1989)—an increase of 89 percent.

Officials from Oxford County towns met with officials from the state Bureau of Taxation yesterday in South Paris to discuss the preliminary figures. A Bureau of Taxation official told The Citizen the figures can be altered if local officials present a good case for altering them.

The preliminary state valuations—plus last year's valuations and percentage increase (or decrease)—are presented below. (The valuations are rounded off to the nearest $50,000.)

Town	FY '88	FY '89	% change
Andover	$37,250,000	$32,750,000	(-12%)
Bethel	54,900,000	69,900,000	27%
Gilead	5,600,000	5,950,000	6%
Greenwood	24,650,000	31,400,000	27%
Newry	27,050,000	51,100,000	89%
West Paris	20,050,000	23,500,000	17%
Woodstock	28,750,000	34,350,000	19%
Upton	5,000,000	5,550,000	11%

Oxford County saw a 17 percent increase in its preliminary state valuation, according to the Bureau of Taxation's figures. The preliminary fiscal '89 valuation is $1,798,900,000, compared with fiscal 1988's $1,534,650.

State valuation figures for towns are used in determining state revenue sharing, education subsidies and local assessments for school district budgets, county tax assessments, and DOT highway funding, according to a Bureau of Taxation official.

Circulation plunge at smaller libraries appears to have halted

The decline in circulation at smaller community libraries in the area appears to have leveled off, but local citizens are still checking out far fewer books than in the past.

In the period from 1980 to 1986, per-capita circulation figures dropped by more than one-third at the the Andover and Woodstock libraries. The figures for the West Paris library dropped only slightly, but that library's per-capita circulation figures were already far lower than any other local library.

The decline, however, apparently leveled off in 1987, as all three libraries saw modest increases in per-capita circulation.

According to statistics compiled by the Maine State Library, 1982, 1986 and 1987 per-capita circulation figures at the three libraries were: Andover—6.53, 4.25 and 4.84; West Paris—2.97, 2.85 and 2.88; Woodstock—4.02, 2.09 and 2.26.

By contrast, per-capita circulation at the Bethel library increased from 5.32 in 1982 to 7.45 in 1986, then fell off to 6.79 in 1987.

New AES principal eager for school to start

Karen Robinson, the new teaching-principal of the Andover Elementary School, brings to the school an extensive background in the teaching of language arts and a commitment to broadening the horizons of her students.

Mrs. Robinson replaces David Murphy, who until this year had been principal of both AES and the Woodstock School. The move enables Mr. Murphy to devote his full time to the WES principalship, while Mrs. Robinson will serve as both principal and Chapter One teacher at AES.

The Andover School will be Mrs. Robinson's first principalship, but she notes that the situation already has a number of strongly positive factors going for it.

"David left everything in A-1 shape for the next principal," she said, "and there is tremendous community support for the school, a first-rate teaching staff—even a very healthful environment.

"And the small class size here is a tremendous advantage," she said.

One of the main challenges of her new position will be working to overcome the problems of isolation and lack of access inherent in almost any rural environment.

"Isolation tends to bring with it greater problems of poverty, alcoholism, and low aspirations," she said, adding that dealing with the effects of such factors was an important goal for the entire SAD #44 system.

"Lack of access is a related problem which comes from being as far removed from cultural and population centers

Andover Olde Home Days this weekend; features food, fun, parade, muster, antiques

The Town of Andover will celebrate its ninth annual Olde Home Days this weekend. It was begun in 1979 as the 175th anniverary celebration of the incorporation of the town. It was started when Anne Fox requested then Selectwoman Jane Rich to have some kind of a celebration to mark the birthday of the town. This year's celebration will stretch three days, Aug. 5-7.

In 1988, for the first time, a committee has been formed to run the festivities. It consists of representatives of all town organizations wishing to participate in the activities. Meetings were held beginning in February and have continued on a monthly basis to ensure Olde Home Days 1988 will be the biggest and best yet.

The theme for the parade will be "Days of Yesteryear," selected by the committee upon suggestion by Leon Simmons. The parade will line up on Route 5 below the cemetery beginning at 9 a.m. and is under the direction of Fred Emerson.

Teachers work to raise agricultural awareness

"And the student said to the farmer: 'How hot do we have to heat a cow in order to get evaporated milk?'"

Shirley Traxler, executive director of the USDA's Agriculture in the Classroom office, used this example of "agricultural illiteracy" to conclude her speech to 20 Maine school teachers Monday evening at the Maine Conservation Camp in Bryant Pond.

The teachers are gathered at the camp this week to develop curricula and lesson plans to combat such ignorance by infusing agricultural awareness into the teaching of a wide variety of subjects.

The workshop is sponsored by the Maine Agriculture in the Classroom Task Force (MAICTA), in an effort to halt what the organization describes as a "decline in understanding [which would], if left unchecked, eventually result in a citizenry incapable of making responsible, informed policy decisions."

Describing the work of the national organization in promoting agricultural awareness, Mrs. Traxler said: "We work with state and national organizations to help teachers bring agriculture to the classroom in an interdisciplinary way by mixing it with social studies, math, languages or art. Students learn the simple fact that agricultural issues and events have been a major influence in their lives throughout history. This impact continues in today's world."

"Unfortunately, hard times for agriculture make it easier for us to do our jobs," she said. "People are beginning to realize they can't take agriculture for granted."

Mrs. Traxler said that the Ag in the Classroom movement in New York/New England: "is the most ambituous regional group in that they are propos-

'No Thank-Q' chapter established in Andover

Andover residents opposed to Central Maine Power Company's plan to build a line of high-voltage towers through the area recently formed a chapter of "No Thank-Q Hydro-Quebec". The parent group, which started in the Canton-Dixfield area, has led the opposition to the CMP plan.

Officers of the Andover chapter are Angelo Kaltsos, chairman; Peter Chandler, vice-chairman; Evelyn Bodemer, secretary. On the steering committee, in addition to the three officers, are Leon Akers and Sydney Pew.

The chapter has attracted over two dozen local residents to its first two meetings. The group will have a booth at this weekend's Olde Home Days, where there will be petitions to sign and T-shirts for sale.

One of the petitions is for landowners opposed to the CMP line crossing their lands. The other is for the public to express opposition to the plan of bringing in Canadian power at the expense of Maine producers in particular and the environment in general.

Bethel board OKs FAA grant, airs tire concerns

The Bethel Board of Selectmen met meeting for the first time in its newly finished meeting room—Monday night authorized the town manager to accept a federal government grant of $404,220 for design and paving of the new runway at Col. Dyke Field.

Total cost of the work is estimated at $449,133. The federal government, through the Federal Aviation Administration, will pick up 90 percent of the tab, while the state and the town kick in 5 percent apiece.

Bethel's share comes to $22,457, which town officials had hoped to cover by contributing the airport lands to the project. It was hoped that the value of the land would be enough to match the amount expected of the town.

However, the selectmen were informed Monday night that the land was valued at only $15,500, leaving a shortfall of $6,957.

Upon recommendation of the town manager, the board voted, 3-0 (selectmen Vic Coolidge and Pat Dooen were absent), to take the money from proceeds from last year's sale of two airport lots to GAMM II.

With the matter of the town's share of the project cleared up, and the FAA grant accepted, the selectmen then voted, 3-0, to accept the low bid of Pike Industries ($364,000) to pave the runway. The remainder of the funds available will mostly go to the consultants, Hunter-Ballew, for design work and supervision of the paving contract. The town manager expects the work to be done by fall.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch informed the selectmen about the tire dump being proposed for 36 acres off the Rabbit Road, in Greenwood. (See story on the tire facility in last week's Citizen). Since, according to an agreement between the fire departments of the two towns, Bethel has responsibility for fighting fires in that portion of Greenwood—along Vernon Street—the selectmen were concerned at being faced with a tire-fueled conflagration.

Board Chairman Arlan Jodrey said the town could oppose the proposal by refusing to fight any tire dump fires.

Town Manager Lynch said the problem of fires wasn't the only problem the town would face. "You're going to find a lot of traffic on Route 35," he said. According to what he had learned from talking with officials at the state Department of Environmental Protection—which is discussing the merits of the tire dump proposal—the facility would become a

The 'Bottomless Pit'

Governor John McKernan said late last week that the state had collected $62 million more than the Legislature had budgeted. This was in addition to the $25 million extra that the state took in as a windfall caused by the changes in the federal income tax law.

The Governor was pleased to report that his administration would return the $62 million to the people of Maine. He wanted the citizenry to know that state government was not a "bottomless pit" that gobbled up endless sums of money.

But, in fact, isn't that exactly what has happened to the $62 million? Do you really think you're going to receive a check from the state for, say, $50?—which would approximate a per capita share of the surplus.

The fact that residents shelled out $62 million more than was appropriated by the Legislature indicates that some pencil pushers weren't doing their jobs. It doesn't take more than a grade school education to set up a budget and figure out how much money you need from the various sources that add revenue to the budget. What does take greater expertise is calculating how rapidly the various budget streams are growing and how much they will yield—the sales tax, for example.

Quite obviously, the administration's budgeteers were way off in their calculations.

Having taken in more money than they should have, the adminstration's people will find it not an easy task to return it. How much would it cost to process and mail checks to every man, woman and child in the state? How much would it cost to devise a formula to return it to the citizenry in the form of programs rather than cash? After the politicians and bureaucrats have massaged the surplus, how much of the $62 million do you believe will get back to people?

The mistake has already been made. Rather than compounding it by trying to return the money, the administration should set it aside as surplus and use it to lower the amount of taxes needed to fuel the next budget. And next time the budget planners should use sharper pencils rather than just collecting money for a "bottomless pit."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

"It was the most enriching and important experience I have had in a foreign country!"

That was the reaction of Younouss Hameye Dicko, longtime director general of Radiodiffusion Television in Mali, to a joint Voice of America (VOA)-University of Maine workshop he attended along with 15 other journalists from the developing world in late June.

Mr. Dicko was equally impressed with his travels in Maine and the University in Orono. He told us that the "locale was captivatingly beautiful...and the inhabitants extremely hospitable." Mr. Dicko added that professors and others in Maine freely opened their homes to visitors. The towns and villages of Maine, the scenery and the "regional feeling," he said, all contributed to his very warm feelings for the area. As the U.S. Embassy in Mali reported to us, "The residents of Maine and the officials of the University could not have made a better impression."

Media executives from seven French-speaking countries in Africa and the Caribbean attended classes in Washington and at the University's campus in Orono. The purpose was to share with media executives the latest in U.S. management methods. In addition to Mali, the other countries represented at the Maine workshop were Benin, Chad, Haiti, Ivory Coast, Togo and Zaire.

This joint program is the latest example of VOA cooperating with the private sector to train media personnel from the developing world. After the ouster of Haiti's President Jean Claude Duvalier in February 1986, VOA helped prepare Haitian journalists—suddenly free after 29 years of repression—to understand the concept of media as independent and responsible entities. We alerted some 375 U.S. schools of journalism to Haiti's media needs; arranged for French-speaking media educators to conduct workshops in five Haitian cities and in Washington; and sent several VOA reporters to Haiti to share their expertise and experiences. We translated the code of ethics and standards of Sigma Delta Chi (the Society of Professional Journalists) into French and Creole and sent it to Haiti. All in all, since Duvalier's ouster, we have helped train some 300 Haitian journalists.

VOA's three-year-old International Training Center (ITC) is designed to involve the U.S. private sector in such efforts. Funding comes from VOA, the private sector, state and local organizations. In the case of the Maine workshop, funding was provided by the University of Maine, the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) and the United States Information Agency (VOA's parent organization).

VOA is uniquely suited to lead this training effort. Each program combines VOA's linguistic talents (we broadcast in 43 languages) and journalistic traditions with the resources of academia and the private sector. The ITC has provided training for more than 700 broadcasters and journalists from 70 countries—ranging from Qatar to China. The courses combine classroom training with actual hands-on experience in our studios and newsroom, under the tutelage of highly trained professionals who understand the problems faced by journalists in developing countries.

Journalists from emerging nations often have little training or experience with the traditions of a free press. That is why VOA, in cooperation with organizations such as the University of Maine, is committed to helping journalists from the developing world to meet the challenge of the Information Age, which provides for a free expression of news and views. Judging from the feedback, the effort is paying off.

Mali's Mr. Dicko, a professor-turned-manager, said the VOA-University of Maine course gave him the theoretical underpinnings of management in a very practical way. He added that he would like to see similar workshops continue for other Francophone media managers and journalists.

I want to thank Mr. Dicko for his insights and candor and the people of Maine for their enthusiastic support of this worthwhile program. I know the people of Maine and the University are as proud of their part in the effort as we are. Mr. Dicko's idea of continuing the workshops for Francophone journalists and media managers in the wonderful State of Maine certainly has my vote.

To the Editor:

"Super Shaws and McDonalds in Bethel?" Well our most horrible nightmare has come true, the chains are here, let's make room for the big boys!

I wonder if anyone in town has had trouble finding a place where they could get a cheeseburger and fries? I know of at least four local restaurants that serve them bigger and better than the Mac. In fact, the local restaurant probably bought their ground beef from Tom's Custom Meats in Bryant Pond, their eggs from Robert's Poultry Farm in Bethel, their paper products from State Paper in Portland, and most of all their profits stay in Bethel in local banks.

Chains are the biggest dig to the free enterprise system in this country! When a person decides to open a business, they are risking everything and usually with only enough operating cash to sustain a loss for a few months until they are on their feet. A chain, on the other hand, has access to millions of dollars in financing to afford losses for a long period or until the smaller guys are out. They also have access to a multibillion dollar advertising campaign mainly directed at children. In other words there is no competing with Big Mac when they can afford to build a $30,000 playground in front of all their restaurants and give away toys with every purchase. In the eyes of a child there is no other place to go.

I used to frequent this donut shop in Portland for eight years. Great donuts; run by Mon and Pop. Dunkin Donuts bought the corner across the street and put Mom and Pop—with a better product—out of business in three months.

Furthermore, is that what we want to greet visitors with: a big parking lot, Super Shaws and Big Mac. Very quaint New England town, is it not?

My concern is not what happens to Hanover Dowel; the building could be changed to accommodate small shops. But why the big chains? We have no room for them in a small town.

Strong letter? Maybe, but I had to get this off my chest, and I don't believe I'm alone. Stand up and voice your opinion on this issue. The future of Bethel depends on it.

A note from the publisher

The Boston Globe last Friday in a page one story on the hazards of summer, incorporated The Citizen's story of a bear in Gilead treeing a woman hiker.

It was an interesting story, and we at the office were pleased to have a reporter from Boston call us up concerning it.

But it is certainly not one of the most important stories we've had in recent weeks.

And, it seems to me, we've had a lot of quite important stories. Bethel's sewer plant woes, for example. Not to mention the solid waste woes of Bethel—and all the surrounding towns.

Did you realize that whereas our operating budget for the Bethel landfill has been around $37,000 annually—before we started adding close-out costs—the annual operating cost for a transfer station, hauling and tipping fees will be up around $200,000? Talk about the high cost of modern life in the throwaway society!

What about the story about the proposed tire dump off the Rabbit Road in Greenwood? Do you realize that Greenwood would become the tire dump capital of Maine if the dump is approved? The Norridgewock of tires would be right here—over a million tires coming in from all parts of the state, the same as trash finds its way to Norridgewock.

Maybe it's better to have all the state's unwanted tires in one place rather than spread out in thousands of illegal tire dumps. If so, Greenwood may be as good a place as any. But you probably won't find many local people to agree with you.

And what about the stories we've had about the proposed shopping center at Bridge and Cross streets. That would not only change the landscape, it would also change the way people in the Bethel area go about their daily routines. Instead of combining trips to the post office and the IGA, will people be combining trips to a McDonald's and a larger supermarket? And, if so, what will that mean for the smaller stores on Main Street.

Change always carries risks, and thinking people examine the risks before pushing ahead. There's a very thoughtful letter from Lauretta Varo in this week's "Letters" column. I'm sure others are also giving deep thought to the question of change.

One of a newspaper's jobs is to bring issues to light so that people have a chance to think about them and discuss them. And that's why I think the few stories I've listed above—because they deal with issues rather than happenings—are a lot more important than the story of a bear treeing a woman. And yet the latter is the story the Boston Globe picked up.

Let's enlarge this example. On a national basis, what sort of stories do you read in your daily paper or hear on the radio or see on the network news? Murders, kidnappings, floods, droughts, graft and corruption.

When it comes to international news, what do the dailies and the networks carry? Train wrecks, wars, floods, famines, terrorist attacks and labor demonstrations.

What we consider news at the national and international levels is happenings, events, "storm and fury, signifying nothing." Is it any wonder, then, that according to the National Geographic study released last week Americans are among the most poorly informed people in the world when it comes to a sense of geography?

If what we see and read of other states and other countries is all action with no substance, we have no reason to need to know where a country, or a state, is located. A raging flood or a raging fire or a raging war looks just as awesome on the tube whether it's in South America or South Africa.

The press should be dealing more with issues and less with events. (And, in fact, in generations past, the press did see to carry more foreign news—as opposed to catastrophies that simply occurred abroad.) Dealing with issues requires putting those issues into perspective—geographic, historical and cultural.

We Americans—for historical reasons—have developed a disdain for things foreign, whether foreign food, foreign languages, or foreign countries. Immigrants all, our forefathers came here to get away from the lands of their birth. Seeking to assimilate into the mainstream, new Americans have consistently turned away from "the old country." In addition, the two large oceans that insulate us from danger from abroad also tend to dampen our interest in what the rest of the world is doing.

This attitude that we just want to be left alone, that we care little about the rest of the world, will not do in an age when the only thing that can save us from destroying the world is to recognize the unity of the entire human race—indeed, the unity of all life on the planet.

Therefore, understanding others becomes ever more important.

Unfortunately, what the National Geographic survey showed was that younger Americans know even less about their world than older Americans. This would indicate that not only is the press doing an increasingly poor job of bringing the rest of the world into our lives, but our schools are also doing an ever-poorer job of educating Americans about the rest of the world.

National Geographic has spotlighted the problem; it's up to us to correct it.

25% of Newry taxes in

The Newry Board of Selectmen met last Tuesday. One taxpayer called to inquire about the valuation on his property. Another called to file an application for Veteran's Exemption.

Tax Collector Mary Tripp reported that approximately 25 percent of the 1988 tax commitment of $496,605 had been collected and deposited. A selectman's warrant was made to transfer $30,000 to the town's money market account, to draw interest until needed, and $10,000 was transferred to the Highway Equipment Fund, as authorized by the voters in March. The discount period on taxes ended July 31.

Fire Chief Virgil Conkright received two radios for the Fire Department. The Town will be reimbursed for the cost of one of these radios by a grant from the State.

Volunteers painted the Fire Station a week ago last Saturday. It was decided to wait until next summer before applying the second coat, to allow the first coat to fully penetrate. Those at the painting bee were Virgil, Pam and Mike Conkright, Bradley and Brenda Wight, Willard Wight, Jeffrey Fleet, Randy Brooke, Clifford Hillier and Jim Bennett. Sylvia Wight and Gilberte Seeley furnished lunch at noon for the painters.

A computer class was held Monday evening, with Jonathan Smith as instructor. Attending were Willard Wight, Stephen Wight, June Swan, Mary Tripp and Sylvia Gray.

The teachers are spending the week meeting with agricultural experts, reviewing national and state curricula, and working to incorporate agricultural concepts into curricula for Maine schools.

They are also visiting a number of area farms, including Pooh Corner Farm, Sonny Hasting's Dairy Farm, Hedgehog Hill Farm, Ricker Hill Farm, and Norlands Living History Center.

Also speaking briefly at Monday's dinner were Maine Agricultural Commissioner Bernard Shaw, MAITCA officials James Cowan, Chaitanya Yorka and Tim Hawthorne.

Newry picks members to help with school board reapportionment

In response to a letter from Education Commissioner Eve Bither officially informing them of the impending reapportionment of the SAD #44 Board of Directors, the Newry selectmen Tuesday appointed Roger Hanscom and Francis Berry to represent the town on the reapportionment committee.

Mr. Hanscom will serve as a representative of the selectmen, Mr. Berry as a citizen-at-large. School Director Gail Sysko will also represent the town on the board.

JACKSON-SILVER POST NEWS

Open house was held in the Jackson-Silver Post Home in Locke Mills on Saturday, July 16, 2-4 p.m.

It was a small crowd, but members were there to greet those who came and showed them the beautiful interior, so recently done over by Past Commander Herb Lyon and his helpers. The main hall is spacious, with a large center area for dancing, and on each end are tables for suppers and games.

On the walk are the two large American flags, framed and under glass, made by Marion Farrand Jordan, that the guests always admire, and there are the lists and pictures of all the past commanders behind the podium.

Historian Leroy Patten had on display all the prize-winning histories made by Herb Lyon and Ellsworth Hathaway over the past years. They contain much of interest to the community, as the American Legion and Auxiliary are dedicated to community service and child welfare.

The ladies meeting room, so nicely done, has new chairs and small tables for small functions.

Photos of Jackson and Silver, for whom the post is named, are on the wall.

In the beginning, when the main building was being put up, it was Service Officer and Life Member Warren Smith who did much of the construction. A past commander, he has been dedicated to the post for many years.

New events this year include children's games at the school yard, with Susie Davis as chairman. Ribbons and medals will be awarded to winners of these events. Louise Horne, of Rumford, has put together an Olde Fashioned Fashion Show featuring clothes of yesteryear. This event will take place in the Town Hall at 4 p.m.

The Historical Society will once again sponsor the flower show. Eleven categories focus on this year's Olde Home Days theme—"Days of Yesteryear." The society will also have a display of antique clothing, including the 1906 band uniform of George H. Abbott. He was born in 1886 on the Whippoorwill Road in North Rumford. His son, Herschel Abbott, of North Woodstock and Massachusetts, recently donated the uniform and his father's cornet to the Society. The elder Abbott was a member of the Ellis River Band. The group was known to have provided concerts on the Common in Andover.

The Andover Public Library is celebrating its 40th year at the present location on Church Street and will be open from 1:30-4:30 p.m. featuring a display of the Yates Antique Collection and a used book sale.

Saturday's events will close with a dance at the Fire Station on Main Street, beginning at 9 p.m.

On Sunday the Ellis River Riders Horse Club will sponsor a horse show in their show ring in South Andover beginning at 9 a.m.

From Augusta

Trouble is brewing in Maine's health care finance system.

One of the challenges of serving in the Maine Legislature is to identify key issues and potential problems before they reach a critical stage. Members of the Legislative Committee on Banking and Insurance put their ears to the ground several months ago and identified the unmistakable rumbling of Maine's health insurance industry. Some committee members are convinced that action must be taken almost immediately if we are to avoid a health insurance crisis similar or perhaps worse than the situation we faced last year involving workers' compensation insurance.

The overall issue of health care insurance is extremely complicated, but the problem identified by the committee comes down to simple economics. In short, Maine is experiencing an imbalance between the growing cost of new technology, medical personnel and medical services and the dwindling amount of money available for health care financing. The crisis is apt to occur when insurance companies operating in Maine decide to pass the cost of this imbalance on to the public in the form of higher premiums. Any Maine employer or individual paying for health insurance can tell you that higher premiums will not be tolerated.

Maine's health care financing problem is clearly demonstrated by the experience of our state's largest health insurance carrier—Blue Cross/Blue Shield. Blue Cross/Blue Shield has been offering health care insurance in Maine since 1938. It took the company 43 years, until 1981 to hit the billion dollar mark in benefits paid to Maine citizens. It only took five years, until 1986, to hit the second billion. Company officials now estimate that it will only take four years, or until 1990, to hit the third billion. Even insurance industry skeptics, when confronted with these statistics, admit that a problem exists.

Today, an ever-growing list of forces are in competition for Maine's limited health care dollars. Chief among these forces are rising hospital costs. The Maine Health Care Finance Commission (MHCFC) was created by the Legislature in 1983 to control the skyrocketing hospital costs. For three years, the MCHFCF successfully moderated costs, but it was felt that the MHFCF regulations were becoming too restrictive and obstructive to the delivery of quality medical care.

Those regulations were loosened and hospital costs were able to rise again. In addition, hospitals have been confronted with a number of unanticipated costs. Liability insurance, a statewide nursing shortage, AIDS and much-needed new technology have all served to drain the limited pool of health care dollars.

Initially trends toward home health care were expected to reduce health care costs, but as more and more people sought out-patient settings, suppliers of health care services saw new business opportunities. We now have a substantial network of out-patient clinics and services, operating in an atmosphere free from the type of cost containment regulations to which Maine hospitals are subject.

Without question this trend toward out-patient and home-based care is exciting and positive, but it has become another expensive responsibility of Maine's health care insurance system. It has resulted in more services, more claims and more participating professionals.

During the past three years Blue Cross/Blue Shield has witnessed a 67 percent increase in claims; a 65 percent increase in benefits paid; and a 43 percent increase in the number of participating professionals providing insurable services.

The wonders of medical technology have also added to the health care financing burden. Such diagnostic tools as the CAT scan, ultrasound and magnetic resonance imaging (MRIs), have extraordinary medical value but carry equally extraordinary price tags. For example, when MRIs became available in 1986 Blue Cross/Blue Shield saw claims for 296 MRI procedures and paid out $225,000 in benefits. In 1987 the company received claims for 1,345 MRI procedures and paid out $923,000 in benefits—a 310 percent increase in one year!

These costs, combined with decreasing federal dollars for Medicare-eligible hospital patients suggests that major changes may be on the horizon for Maine's health care financing system. Throwing money at the problem is not an acceptable response.

During the next five months, before the 114th Legislature convenes, the Banking and Insurance Committee will consider various fundamental changes in the way we finance health care in this state. We will be working to design a health care system which spreads financial responsibility fairly and evenly and offers the highest quality health care to all Maine citizens.

I look forward to your comments about Maine's health care system and any other issue before the Maine Legislature.

Libraries

Statewide, per-capita circulation increased moderately, but steadily, from 6.41 in 1982 to 6.79 in 1987.

The Bethel library, with a collection of nearly 15,000 volumes, is considerably larger than other area libraries, each of which has between 8,000 and 9,000 volumes.

That size, and the quality of the Bethel library collection, may account for its stronger circulation figures.

"Collection and access are the keys to circulation," said Dick Arnold, of the Maine State Library's development division.

Local librarians generally agree that increased video options are a major cause of the decline—with VCRs, cable, and dish antennas all adding to the competition for the reader's—or viewer's—limited leisure time.

Smaller libraries, with fewer choices to offer, appear to be most vulnerable. But even the Bethel library is not immune: "Your biggest competition is cable," said Bethel librarian Betsy Raymond. "Once cable comes in, your circulation just isn't booming as much."

Librarians at the Andover and Woodstock libraries—where the circulation decline had been most severe—were unable to say why it apparently halted during the last year, but both librarians did note that their libraries now have programs aimed at attracting young readers.

transfer station for tires from all over the state. Mr. Lynch said, however, he doubted the tires would ever be transferred once they arrived at the Greenwood site.

On the other hand, Selectman Peter Haines said that although local residents might not like the idea, if the applicant for the permit (Peter Gordon) could prove he has contracts for selling the tires to others, the project could be acceptable to all concerned. According to a DEP official, Mr. Gordon is expected to make a formal application for the so-called tire recycling facility by Sept. 15.

In other business, the selectmen voted to sign a $150 annual contract with the Allen Hill Animal Shelter, in Oxford, to assure space for stray or unleashed Bethel dogs that are picked up.

The board also voted to use $3,000 in an education block grant for local tax relief. A final decision, however, will be up to a special town meeting in the fall. The options given by the terms of the grant are to use the money for tax relief, give it to the school district for teacher recertification, or a combination of both.

The board approved a charge for the newly established Solid Waste Disposal Committee. The committee, whose members have not yet been appointed, will be responsible for reviewing the town's solid waste situation and coming up with recommendations—by May 1989—on alternatives for when the local landfill is filled (estimated to occur in two to three years). The committee will also be expected to draft a solid waste recycling ordinance. The selectmen approved the concept of having a paid staff to assist the committee in its tasks.

The board appointed Pat Dooen to represent it on the committee being formed in the school district to recommend on reapportionment of the school board. The selectmen also decided to ask Ken Ramage if he would serve on the committee as an at-large member from Bethel. The committee will meet Aug. 17 to begin work on reapportionment.

The board approved a final payment of $6,700 to Parker Appraisal for its revaluation of residential and commercial real estate in the town, at a contracted price of $68,000.

The selectmen also voted to implement an improvement project in the approximately 135-acre town forest opposite the landfill. The selective cutting will be done in accordance with tree farm procedures. The town will also hire people to re-paint the property line around the forest, a portion of which is in Newry.

Town Manager Lynch related to the board the essence of his visit to DEP last week to discuss the town's ailing sewer system. He said the DEP is quite upset by the town's continued polluting of the river. He said agency staffers consider the town to be in violation of its permit for discharge of treated wastewater.

Mr. Lynch said the agency threatened to further curtail the number of hookups to the town sewer unless corrective action is taken. The DEP wants the town to set up a schedule of repairs to be implemented over the next few years.

The town has already had two studies done on what it will cost to repair the ailing sewer plant. A study of short-term remedies indicated a price tag of $125,000; long-term rehabilitation, according to the other study, would cost about $1.3 million. Repair of leaking sewer lines would be an additional $1 million.

Mr. Lynch told the selectmen: "They [DEP staffers] were concerned with water quality. We were concerned with dollars and cents."

Chairman Jodrey said, "I'm sure what we're polluting is minute [compared with other, larger polluters.]"

Mr. Lynch pointed out that Bethel is not the only town in trouble with the DEP because of a polluting sewer system. Blue Hill and Richmond have also been told that they cannot tie in new customers, he said.

His expectation, he told the board, is that he will work out a consent agreement with DEP by which the plant will be allowed to continue in operation as long as a schedule of work is carried out as agreed upon to upgrade the plant.

In other business, the selectmen accepted the resignation—for health reasons—of Danny Kennagh from the Public Works Department. They agreed to send him a letter thanking him for his 10 years of service to the town.

PREPARING FOR THEIR FIRST DAY IN A NEW SCHOOL—Karen Robinson, right, new principal of the Andover Elementary School, and Kathy Conrad, new 4th Grade teacher, recently spent the day hauling in books and supplies to their new school—and doing all the other things that need to be done before school starts and their new pupils arrive. Mrs. Robinson and her husband own a camp on Sawyer Brook, so she has been able to spend a great deal of time in town, getting acquainted with townspeople, school staff and some of her students.

as we are," she said. Even with a supportive community, first-rate teachers and motivated students, Mrs. Robinson noted, the school still had to find a way to expose the children to a broader variety of cultural and educational stimuli.

Among her other goals for the school are increasing the participation in adult education programs, strengthening the parent group, and continuing Mr. Murphy's efforts to build the school library.

"And fixing the roof," she said, acknowledging a long-standing building problem. "We've got to develop a long-range plan for major renovations," she said, " so that we don't end up with a crash program every year."

Mrs. Robinson holds a B.S. in Elementary Education and and M.S. in Reading from the University of Southern Maine. In addition, she brings more than 25 years of editorial and educational experience to her new position. She is currently doing further graduate work toward a Ph.D at the University of New Hampshire.

"We're finishing up a project with 1st Grade parents and children writing to and for each other," she said. "Concerned parents usually know what to do about helping their children learn to read, but not so much how to help them learn to write.

"We're brainstorming, trying new things, sharing and rewriting. The ultimate product will be a booklet for next year's 1st Grade parents."

Mrs. Robinson and her husband, Edward, live in South Portland but have a camp on Sawyer Brook in Andover. She plans to live at the camp during the school year.

Having spent much of the summer at the school, getting acquainted with the staff and community, the new principal is eager to get started. "Quality education is not a matter of dollars, but of the nature of the people involved and their commitment to education," she said. "And the people of Andover clearly want the best."

CCC ALUMNI TO MEET

The Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) Alumni will have a reunion Aug. 20 at SMVTI in South Portland, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with roast beef dinner served at noon by Chef Gilmore—cost $7.50 each, reservations to be made by Aug. 10 by writing CCC, P.O. Box 2397, South Portland, 04106 or calling Bob Blair 799-2207 or Bob Chenevert, 799-1230.

The main speaker will be Speaker John Martin of the Maine House. Also speaking will be Austin Wilkins, former Forest Commissioner, who will show the new prize-winning CCC TV tape of the Maine CCCs—as they were in the 1930 and as some are now.

Rev. Travers Smith will open the reunion and SMVTI Director Wayne Ross will welcome everyone to his beautiful campus. Peter Arsenault, northeast director for the CCC Alumni, Francis Derwin, Massachusetts president Chapter 60, our local secretary, Millard Irish, and Herbert Adams, historian, whose father was in the CCC, will also address this group.

Robert Chenevert, president, will introduce the speaker, and member Larry Fitzgerald will play the piano during the meal.

Coffee and things to eat will be available in the morning.

The CCC chapter sponsors an ongoing scholarship program at SMVTI. They have also put up plaques at Fort Williams and Fort Preble (now SMVTI) noting the fact that the CCCs had been stationed at these forts in the '30s.

The CCC were trained by the U.S. Army and Army Reserve and most of the boys went into the service soon after getting out of the CCC, in shape and ready to perform their duties—as planned. All the alumni are 70 or over.

Building is booming in Bethel

Although condominium construction has slowed this summer, construction of other residential, industrial and commercial properties has more than taken up any slack in the building trades. In fact, tradespeople and suppliers alike report they are working flat out.

Some of the projects—started, underway, or just completed—around town include the 10 pictured here. Beginning at the upper left and working around clockwise, they are as follows:

Ann and Lisa Friedlander's Unicorn Flower Shop and Garden Center is taking shape on a large lot across from Telstar Regional High School.

L.E. Davis Co. has a new separator and sawdust bin for their sawmill.

Ginger and Gene Kelly's new, and larger, Main Street building is coming along rapidly. It replaces a building that burned down last winter. It is expected to house Ross Joly Realty, plus other offices.

Gould Academy is bringing in tons of fill to make new playing fields below the campus proper.

The Bethel Fire Station is now sporting a new, and newly painted, sign.

Sue Howe and Warren Tibbetts are in the process of constructing a 1,600 square foot home on the Middle Intervale Road. The view from the house extends all the way to the Gould fieldhouse.

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce has moved into new quarters at Carl and Nancy Hansen's business block, at the corner of Main and Cross streets. A sporting goods store is expected to be the next tenant. The Hansens are still looking for a restaurant to fill 3,000 square feet of space. That's the Chamber's executive director Robin Zinchuk in front of the new office.

Bob and Nancy Chadbourne are building a new house on the top of Paradise. The extensive stonework is being done by Joe and Christian Robiller.

Carl Glidden is expanding the rear of the IGA. He says the addition will allow him to have more storage and will also allow him to feature more baked goods and more chilled products.

Keith Durgin has the foundation in for his office on High Street.

The weather isn't too good this morning but hasn't been for the past few mornings. Dog days, Peggy says, but even the dogs don't like hot humid weather. Don't know where they got the idea of calling them dog days but probably came from the same source so many other names came from.

Had Kariann with me from last Wednesday to Sunday. She had been wanting to come up so finally had her. Still not feeling the best from having the staph infection or something. Maybe it is the weather that is making me feel so rotten. Who knows, I don't.

Anyway, had as good a time with Kariann as I could and Saturday night Wynona came up to go to the dance with Peggy and stayed overnight here. Kariann liked the idea of having her mother sleep in the bottom bunk and she in the top so it sure made her happy. They went home Sunday morning as Wynona had lots of work to get done.

Had a visit from our sister, Laura, of East Andover, last Friday afternoon, I believe it was. Forgot to keep my dairy this week so haven't the facts as I wish I did. However, she was here as well as visiting with Peggy at her place. She had supper with us before heading up the road for home. It is always nice to have her visit us.

Went to North Bridgton on Monday to see Dr. Shedd, as Dr. Jealous is out of town for the week. Have to have appointments ahead nowadays in order to see a doctor as they are so busy. Makes it hard at times, but that's the way it seems to be.

Had to freeze more swiss chard on Tuesday and had about eight quarts of them to put up. We have enough greens to have some everyday for the next year, I think. The beet greens were plentiful, and with the chard and spinach we have put up, we won't be short of them—and that is for sure. They will taste good during the winter months.

The rain has helped the garden a lot and it looks good and the tomato plants are 'most as tall as Russell is. They grew tall last year and have again this year and blossomed and have tomatoes started on some of them. We have had some cauliflower, broccoli, carrots and beets, as well as the peas and greens from the garden so far and will have more. Russell has a green thumb or something. He said the string beans are about ready to be picked so we will be having them next, I guess.

His flowers are blooming pretty and his glads are budding and growing tall so he has got to find time to tie them up or they will lop over. Roses aren't as pretty anymore but other flowers are in full bloom and beautiful. The hummingbirds are coming to the feeders this year and we enjoy watching them. They came once or twice last year and then stopped. Why, we don't know, but this year they are coming a lot and we enjoy them. Kariann liked to watch them when she was here. I had never seen one of them perch on anything before, but they like the wire out back and take a drink and then go up on the wire to wait a minute before taking another drink. Cute to watch.

Russell keeps busy outside doing this and that and working in the garden as well as other things that need doing. Always something to do if one can do it.

West Paris Grange will be having Youth Night on Aug. 4 and invites all grange members to come. Also, they will be having their dance on Aug. 6 so come and have a good time as usual.

The Lovejoys attended the P.H. Chadbourne field day at Sebago State Park and all had a grand time. Mary said she hadn't been there before and thought it a lovely place to go. I have been there several times and found it lovely. Am glad they had such a good time.

Take care one and all and have a good week.

Tri-Town Rescue

The auxiliary has scheduled a pancake breakfast Aug. 6, 6:30-10:30 a.m., at the Tri-Town Barn. The menu will include pancakes or scrambled eggs, bacon and toast.

The annual Community Birthday Calendar sale is scheduled for the month of August. Connie Bacon is organizing the sale this year. If you would like to order a calendar, please call her at 674-2870. This yearly reminder of important birthdays in your family and community also includes the emergency number for the ambulance, if it is needed.

The service had its annual picnic Sunday at the barn under hot, humid weather. Charlie Lowe barbequed chicken for the members. A group photo was taken for the annual calendar.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Historical Society will meet Aug. 3, at 6 p.m. for a potluck supper at the Historical Society building. A business meeting will follow the supper.

The Community Club will meet Tuesday, Aug. 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall. Members are asked to bring something for a silent auction. Edna Cole and Charlotte Cole are on the refreshment committee.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Tuesday evening at the Fire Station with Denise Swan, Charlotte Kimball, Mary Stone, Cheryl Young, Flossie Bernier, Maggie Ring and Sally Melville present. They discussed the Senior Citizen dinner to be held at the Town Hall on Aug. 4.

Helen Chase and Charlotte Cole visited Ledgeview Memorial Home Wednesday, and Charlotte played guitar for some of the people.

Marcia and Jon Smith are at Word of Life Camp in New York this week chaperoning a group of young people from the Calvary Hill Baptist Church; so their dog, Cocoa, is spending the time with "Grampa" and "Grammie", John and Lorraine Mills. Marcia will be going for surgery at Thayer Hospital in Waterville on Aug. 4. If anyone wants to send her a card, her home address is Box 119, Dryden, 04225. I'm sure Jon will see she gets it.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Painchaud, Brian and Timothy, of Kittery, are spending two weeks vacationing at the Roger's camp.

Mary Mills is home from the hospital but still isn't feeling too well. We all hope she gets better soon.

Annie Frederick and children have returned to their home in St. Marie, Idaho, after spending nine days with her father, Rodney Cross.

John C. Maldonado, of Denver, Colo., was a recent visitor of his grandmother, Norma Knight, and went to see Lee and Mary Mills while he was here.

My apologies for not having in any news last week. I was having trouble with my stomach again. I'm not sure if it is just a chronic condition or I picked up a bug. If there is anything going around I seem to catch it and I'm getting mightly tired of it whatever it is. I wasn't too happy with what I was doing the Monday before but I guess it was a cut above being sick. John and I went with Marcia to Waterville so she could have some preop work done and give some blood for her operation. She, wisely, showed us a back way into the hospital but I was not content to leave it at that—I had never been to Waterville and I wanted to see Waterville, so while she was giving blood I went to downtown Waterville. I certainly gave my husband and myself a merry ride as I went up the wrong way on a one-way street and up the wrong lane on right-way streets, saw all of Waterville I cared to see and some of Winslow, which I had no intention of seeing. John tells me I even went through Colby College campus, but I was too busy trying to get back to the hospital to notice. I'm sure Waterville was glad to see the last of me—and it almost was.

Marie and Barry York, of Burnt Hills, N.Y., are spending two weeks at Charlotte Cole's camp lot. Elinor Murphy and some of the rest of the family from New Jersey and New York are expected this week.

Marc, Leslie, Nathan and Jennie Moore enjoyed the P.H. Chadbourne and Co. picnic at Sebago State Park, as did Carl and Earl Colby.

Leslie saw a moose cross the field by her house early one evening.

Patrick Harrington is leaving Sunday for a week at Camp Hinds, in Raymond, where he will be working on his advancement in Scouting.

DIXFIELD WOMAN WINS NORTH POND SAILING REGATTA

The winner of the day was Martha Cross, of Dixfield, with 161 points. Second was Jeffrey Seaman, of North Pond, with 151 points; 3rd, Bob Davis, Round Pond, 91 points. The leader for the season is Bob Silvia, with 508 points.

The next regatta will be on North Pond Sunday, Aug. 7, at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Ethel Herr returned home Wednesday from Stephens Memorial Hospital after surgery for a broken hip. Her daughter, Mrs. Barbara Grandire, of Keene, N.H., is with her.

Mrs. Connie Hindman drove her mother to Rumford for her medical appointment Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hatstat, of Brownsville, Vt., spent this week at their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Erland Wentzell, of Sebago, were overnight guests of Mrs. Millie Wentzell one night this week.

Mrs. Norma Salway and myself were in Lewiston-Auburn shopping Tuesday. On Thursday we visited with relatives in Unity and also called on the Robert Scotts while there.

Overnight visitors of the Jimmy Kimballs Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Knowles, from Virginia, and Mrs. Eleanor Samuelson, of Portland. Other weekend visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Cobb, of West Gray, and Christine's granddaughter Cheryl and baby, of Denmark, were Sunday dinner guests.

Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be Aug. 4, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured speaker for the evening will be Jane Radcliffe, who will make a slide presentation on "Early 19th Century Wall Decorators." Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

A major addition has been made to the research collections of the Bethel Historical Society by the recent acquisition of 45 reels of microfilm containing all the pages of the Advertiser-Democrat from 1933 to 1986. This newspaper published in Norway contains numerous items relating to Oxford County and will prove invaluable to researchers of 20th century history. This collection was made possible by funds from an anonymous donor and proceeds of the Society's Twitchell Fund.

Plans for Sudbury Canada Days continue. The theme for the children's parade, which begins the festivities at 1 p.m. on Aug. 13, will be "Nursery Rhymes." Heading this event will be Terry Perry. The flower show will be supervised by Barbara H. Brown and Gertrude Hutchins. Historical videos will be shown both afternoons by Society president Marvin Ouwinga. Old time children's games will be supervised by Betsy Paquette. A wide variety of craft demonstrations and exhibits will be coordinated by Lorrie Hoeh. The art show will once again be in charge of Helen Morton. The farming-logging exhibit will be in the Hastings barn next to the Dr. Moses Mason House under the supervision of Barbara Henkala. The badminton tournament will be coordinated by Mary Beth Bayerlein, horseshoes by Dick Crandall and Earlen Keniston, croquet by Lynda Chandler. The log driver's bean supper will be under the general supervision of Persis Post, and the old-time variety show will be hosted by Harry Davis. Jim Haskell will provide hayrides. Anyone wishing further information is urged to call the Society office, at 824-2908.

The latest contributors to the 1988 Endowment Campaign include Tony and Eleanor Pugliese, Gilead, and Guy and Madeleine Gibbs, of Bethel. To date, $1,650 has been contributed toward the goal of $7,500 by 17 individuals.

News from the

Bethel Recreation Board

It's all over but the shouting! Once again the Bethel Braves walked off with the victory in the playoff tournament at Rumford Point last Wednesday. Their 19-0 win over Rumford Point netted them a 17-0 won-lost record for the season.

The Braves played probably the best baseball game all season long, according to Coach Tom Remington. "Which is what every coach dreams of—the team playing best in the championship game."

He had this to share: "So many things that we worked hard on all summer long began showing up. I think every kid hit the ball and hit it well. There were five triples hit—two by Tim Remington and three by Tyrel Bartholomew. Joel Riley made one of the prettiest plays at third base, charging the ball, scooping it up and throwing out the batter at first base.

"One of only two base hits given up to Rumford Point all night went into the outfield. The execution of play was superb, hitting the cut off man, who threw accurately to home plate and got the runner to save a shutout for us."

Altogether the Braves had 16 hits, six for extra bases, walked four times and struck out only twice.

Josh Otten went three for four hitting, one of which was a double. Tim Remington also went three for four, with two triples. Tyrel Bartholomew went four for four, with three triples. The Braves scored 12 of their 19 runs in the first inning.

Tim Remington pitched five innings and was just brilliant, said Coach Remington. He faced 19 batters, gave up no runs, only two base hits, struck out eight and had no walks. Josh Otten came on in the sixth to face only three batters—two ground ball outs and one strike out to end the game.

Coach's comments: "I'm so happy for the Braves. When we first began this spring, I told them we could go 17-0 but that it would require some hard work and sacrifice to do it. Obviously they did. They are all the best bunch of kids a coach could ask for.

"Thank you Tom Riley and Les Otten for unselfishly giving up your time to help our boys. It certainly made my job much, much easier.

"Thank you Brant Remington and Bob Remington for your excellent job umpiring our games. It is really difficult to find that type of quality.

"Thank you Anita Remington for your time and energies spent keeping the scorebook.

"Thank you parents and friends for coming out to the game and supporting our youth. It means so much to them to know people care.

"Thank you to all the players of the Northern Oxford County Little League for your true sportsmanship and love of baseball. It was always a pleasure to compete with such wonderful people.

"Thank you to the Bethel Recreation Board and the Town of Bethel for making it possible for our young children to experience baseball and all that it offers.

"Thank you Thelma and Janina Remington for your willingness to give up time from your busy schedules to do this column and take pictures. A job extremely well done.

"And last of all, thank you Braves for giving me the time of my life that I will never forget."

And this reporter says: "Thank you Tom Remington for a great job of coaching, born out of a love for kids. Thank you Red Sox Coaches, Greg Merrill and Bill Myers, the Greens, Glen Dakin and Tony Hebert, the Blues, Carroll Murphy and Joe Harvey, the Reds, Jim Fiske, and last but not least, our present faithful T-Ballers and their coach, Jim Osgood. It really was a rainbow of a summer!"

NTL starts six sessions

The latest group of participants and staff for the NTL Institute summer sessions arrived in Bethel last weekend for six new programs that started on Sunday and Monday. A seventh program is continuing into its second and final week.

The new series of offerings covers a wide range of interests, from Strategic Management and Organization Development, to a two-week Graduate Student Professional Development Program, to a personal growth program called Holding On and Letting Go.

Approximately 170 participants and staff are in residence this week. More than two dozen of these are from overseas countries, many of them attending the special international program currently in progress.

On Sunday evening the participants of this program, called Training/Consultation Skills for International Human Resource Development Specialists, shared with members of the Bethel community some of their values, visions, and possible resolutions to some of these concerns, including how they might individually have some positive impact in their countries. A number of Bethelites attending the session found much in common with those concerns, and possible resolutions, in thinking about Bethel.

At Monday's opening session, Jeff Parsons welcomed NTL arrivals on behalf of the town and the Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee.

A new series of Sunrise Seminars started this week. On Tuesday, Mary Beth Peters spoke on the topic, "Applied Behavioural Science is Alive and Well in South Africa," and today (Wednesday) Edie and Charlie Seashore talked about "Feedback at Work."

Still to come are the following topics: Thursday, Aug. 4: Barbara Greig and staff, "NLP: Using Your Brain for a Change;" Friday, Aug. 5: Bob Gaarder, Norma Jean Anderson and participants in the international HRD program: "NTL Learning Methodology—Is It Transferable Overseas?;" and Saturday, Aug. 6: Barbara Hein on "Rollercoaster Life: Music and Awareness."

These early morning seminars are given between 7:30 and 8:15 a.m. Tuesday through Friday mornings in the Bethel Inn Conference Center through Aug. 20. Bethel area residents are always welcome.

By COLISTA MORGAN

One morning, which dawned hot with heavy air, I decided that later I'd go to the river.

The sun broke through the haze and the mountain ridges thrust up like dark islands in a misty sea. Clouds floated in the sky and shadows trailed across the land.

At the mouth of the river I was greeted by the Cedar Waxwing dressed in his robe, delicate and silky in texture.

Up the river I anchored beneath a shady tree. All was silence and I breathed balsam-scented air. There were many little things of interest around me that mingled with the songs of the thrush.

Now I'm home and it's evening and I live with my "pond reflections."

If I reflect on my small pond/It glides through my mind;/and memories come and go/About things that I used to find.

Above the waters, when smooth and blue,/Enchanted with pure grace;/Bloomed the pond lillies so bright/And I'd look down to see my face.

I'd row down through the pads/Water splashing by my side,/Water bugs and dragon flies/Dashed away to go and hide.

There's something about a boat ride/That is happy and free/Like turning back pages of time/To the days that used to be.

So many hours I have spent/Up the river under a tree/Just boat, the whispering leaves,/The sky, fresh air—and me.

It's waters are pure, shallows bright,/And clear, where eddies play./The flowers are the fairest there,/So inviting I want to stay.

So, whenever I feel sad and lonely/I go to this tranquil pond/And happy memories return;/Bringing things of which I'm fond.

KIMBALL FAMILY REUNION

The 1988 Kimball Family reunion for all Kimballs living in Maine will be Sunday, Aug. 21, at the Dr. Moses Mason House, Bethel, according to Chairman Stuart Martin, Rumford Point. Registration will start at 10 a.m. and refreshments will be available for the coffee hour.

Genealogy help will be offered those bringing questions related to their family tree research.

Throughout the day, the exhibits of Grace Kimball, National Kimball Family Historian, may be viewed. Those attending are urged to bring any pictures or printed material relating to Kimballs, which they would like incorporated in the permanent records (these might include wedding accounts, obituaries, births or items published about Kimballs receiving honors).

Maine is one of several states that hold reunions, in addition to the annual national reunions, which have been held since 1968. This year's National KFA meeting was held July 29-31 at Montpelier, Vt.

The Association, incorporated in 1972, began with a reunion planned by Elizabeth Mason Carter, of Bethel, assisted by several Maine Kimball cousins. This first national reunion in 1968 (also 1970 and 1971) was held at Bridgton Academy, and the reunions since have been largely convened in New England on various school campuses. Chairman Martin and his wife, the late Estella Martin, were among those involved in the early plans.

As usual there will be a business meeting, discussion and program at 1:30 p.m., Aug. 21.

Information may be obtained from Chairman Stuart Martin, 364-7528, Elizabeth Mason Carter, 836-2343, or Stanley R. Howe, 824-2908. Any correspondence should be addressed to Mrs. Carter, at Box 44, West Bethel 04286.

North Paris

By DORIS C. LAWRENCE

Hope everyone has enjoyed this hot muggy weather the past week. Some sprinkles about every day.

Sorry I made a mistake in last week's news. The West Paris Historical Society is having a supper Aug. 13 at the West Paris Historical Hall on Main Street, but it is going to have baked beans, ham, turkey, potato salad, coleslaw, homemade yeast (hot) rolls, homemade pies, coffee and punch. There will be a dance following the supper at the Hall. Music by "The Parisians", 5-7 p.m.

Joe Vatcher went to Massachusetts Monday to bring his sister Fannie Whitten back to visit awhile. He has had a bumper crop of cultivated raspberries, so she is making jam and zucchini relish. They went to Bridgton one day to have a cookout with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson Sr.

The State has hot-topped the road from North Paris to Tuelltown. It sure is smooth.

Duane Abbott and Corinne Wright got married Friday evening, July 22, at the North Paris Federated Church. Congratulations to the newlyweds.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Abbott are spending a few days at Cathedral Pines, fishing.

Callers at the "Root" Lawrences have been Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Joe Vatcher, Fannie Whitten, Joe Kalinowski, Jeff Coffin, Roddy Westleigh, Richard Felt, Lucy Robbins and Jeanne Millett.

Leone Penley, from West Paris, was walking on Main Street early one morning and as she got by Smith Street a moose came along. She didn't know whether to run or stay. So she stayed and the moose crossed the street and went into some bushes in back of Eleanor Heikkinen's.

Ivan Proctor Sr. was the guest of honor at a cookout and birthday party at the home of his daughter, Dorene Merrill, and family last Friday evening in Waterford. Those present were Owen and Donna Melville and Dennis, of Woodland, Donita and Michelle Murch, Shelley Birney, Dennis Heino, Beryl Bonney, Sid and Cynthia Scott and Zach, Ann Proctor and Ivan Jr., Ray and Dorene Merrill, Benjamin, Jason and Elizabeth and the honored guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Melville and Dennis returned to Woodland on Saturday.

Kelsey Lamb has been with her grandparents, Sayward and Cynthia Lamb, this week and spending much time at camp.

Forward Fellowship met at the Lamb cottage on North Pond Monday evening, with nine members and two guests present. After the potluck supper, the business meeting was held. It was decided to hold a food sale and flea market on Aug. 20 on the lawn at Cynthia Lamb's home, beginning at 9 a.m. The list of workers is not complete at this time. The next meeting will be at Beryl Bonney's cottage on Round Pond on Aug. 22 with a potluck supper preceding. Lempi Cyr received the mystery package. Pokeno was played for entertainment.

Our former Universalist Church minister, Rev. Herbert Weeks, will be delivering the sermon at the West Sumner Universalist Church on Aug. 7 at 11 a.m.

The Eleanor B. Forbes Goodwill Group will meet at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at the home of Martha Day, with Virginia Hyam assisting as hostess for the noon potluck dinner. The program will be a recipe exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chase were camping at Cathedral Pines in Stratton/Eustis during the past weekend to join the other West Paris campers who spent the week there.

NOTES FROM
Evans Notch District
White Mountain National Forest

White Mountain National Forest Supervisor Michael Hathaway announced last week the permanent location of a snowmobile route connecting the Hurricane Mountain Road near North Conway, N.H., with Route 2 near Shelburne, N.H. This route will replace the existing temporary trail that goes through the Wild River valley. "We have done a lot of field work on this new North-South snowmobile trail and I believe it will provide outstanding recreational snowmobiling," said Supervisor Hathaway.

An earlier agreement between snowmobile and environmental interests allowed for the temporary trail to be used through the 1987-88 winter season, with provision for a one-year extension. The additional year has been granted to allow time to construct the permanent route. A number of bridges will need to be built and several miles of trail cleared that are wide enough for modern grooming equipment.

The new route will provide a permanent location to connect the southern and northern areas of New Hampshire. This connector has been a goal of the New Hampshire Snowmobile Association. The trail will provide a quality ride through a scenic area of the White Mountain National Forest along the Maine-New Hampshire border.

The Wild River portion of the National Forest has been prized by a number of groups trying to protect large areas for pedestrian uses such as backpacking, hiking and skiing. Because of the size of the Wild River's watershed, few roads and relative remoteness, the prospects of increased snowmobiling in the area via a north/south route caused considerable debate among users.

Hathaway went on to say, "by rerouting the trail the snowmobilers have kept their north/south trail and the hikers will have their solitude. I believe this solution will work out to everyone's benefit."

The Forest Service will be working with the New Hampshire Snowmobile Association, the bureaus of Off-Highway Vehicles of New Hampshire and Maine and the Maine Transportation Authority to plan and construct the trail. The goal is to have the trail ready for use by December of 1989.

NEWS FROM THE BETHEL AREA
Health Center

The time has come for school sports physicals to be performed. Ten years ago a quickie physical every year was common. However, recent studies by both the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Academy of Family Physicians indicate that a thorough physical every two or three years for a healthy child over six years old is all that is necessary.

Because many sports programs still require some type of physical exam within a year, the Health Center will provide a screening physical for our regular patients who have had a complete examination within the last two years. Parents are requested to bring physical forms with them at the time of physical. Parent's section is to be filled out before coming in for the appointment. Please arrange your appointment early to prevent being disappointed.

A screening physical consists of a very brief examination of the child for major abnormalities and includes blood pressure, vision test, urinalysis and a simple blood test for anemia, height, weight and tetanus booster, if necessary. If the child is healthy, forms can then be completed. Any significant health problem however will probably require a return visit in order to complete a full evaluation and decide on treatment.

A complete physical involves all of the above plus a in-depth health history covering any illness, allergy and injury requiring medical attention, tetanus booster, physical and mental development. If significant health problems surface, further evaluation and treatment are recommended.

Adult Ed readies fall course listing

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will begin the fall schedule of classes in mid-September, according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell. A brochure describing fall term courses and programs will be mailed around Labor Day to all postal patrons in SAD #44 and neighboring communities.

Mrs. Newell is now at work lining up an exciting selection of courses and would like to hear from anyone who has a course to suggest or who has a special skill they would be willing to share with others. She may be reached at the Adult Education office, 824-2780, or at home, 824-2089.

Adult Education counselor Merrill Bittner was a presenter at the 10th Career Education and Career Information Conference held at CMVTI in late June. She spoke as part of a panel of users of Career Information Delivery Systems, describing the CareerSearch program she has instituted in SAD #44 and the use of the computer-based CHOICES program as part of that process.

Thelma Remington, who is the morning secretary during the school year in the Adult Education office and is a trainee with the Senior Community Service and Employment Program, has been working three evenings a week this summer helping as receptionist for the Telstar Evening Summer School. After summer school ends Aug. 4 she will resume her morning hours in the Adult Education office, Monday through Thursday, 8-1. Nena Sargent, the Adult Education secretary who works in the afternoon during the school year, will resume her duties in late August.

LAST CHAMBER MUSIC RECITAL OF SEASON TUESDAY

The Sebago-Long Lake Region Music Festival will present the final concert of its 16th season on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at Lake Region High School, on Route 302 between Naples and Bridgton.

Three familiar works by familiar composers will be performed by familiar festival artists. Audley Green, harpsichord, is soloist in the "Bach D Minor Harpsichord Concerto." Judith Pence, oboe, is featured in the Mozart "Oboe Quartet." Closing the festival is the Brahms "String Sextet in B-Flat" performed by Paul Wolfe, Laurie and James Kennedy, Nancy Beacham and Margaret and Benjamin Karp.

There will be a reception at the high school following the performances for the artists, trustees and audience members.

This concert is made possible, in part, by a grant from The Maine Arts Commission. The sponsor for the evening's performance is Faxon Company, Inc.

Tickets are $7 and will be available at the door. Reservations are not necessary. For further information call 647-2089 or 583-2345.

BETHEL LIBRARY NEWS

The Bethel Library's various fundraising activities on Mollyockett Day were very successful. Proceeds from the quilt raffle (Barbara Douglass was the lucky winner) and the book sale will be used to augment the book-buying budget. The library staff thanks all who bought and sold raffle tickets, as well as the many generous people who donated their used books.

Parents are reminded about the summer activities for children at the Bethel Library. After an earlier announcement that Preschool Story Hour would be in recess until September, a "Story Reader," Linda Gamble, stepped forward. All 3-5-year-olds are invited to attend this hour, 10-11 a.m. on Thursday, of story reading and activities.

Friday Flicks will continue every Friday night, 7-8 p.m. These movies are aimed primarily at the younger children, though this year an attempt was made to choose one longer film, to be shown the second half hour, for the 7-10-year-old crowd. All children are welcome.

Finally, there is still time for children in Grades 1-5 to participate in the Summer Reading Program. There are extra forms available at the library check-out desk and the librarians will be happy to help parents and children locate and choose books appropriate to the program. Last year 26 children completed the program.

Adult Ed graduation Thursday at Telstar

The Telstar Evening Summer School will conclude a six-week session on Thursday, Aug. 4, with a graduation ceremony in the Telstar library, according to Summer School Director Carol Nielsen.

Three students, Charles Cole of Woodstock, Mark Bartlett of Locke Mills, and Gideon Dorman of Bethel will receive their Telstar High School diplomas at that time. SAD #44 Board Chairman Merton T. Brown Jr. will make the presentations.

In addition, the following members of the faculty of the Summer School will present certificates of completion and achievement awards to members of their classes: John Watson in English, Susan Stephenson in Algebra, and Ms. Nielsen in Social Studies.

Families of students are encouraged to attend the 8:15 p.m. program, which will be followed by refreshments.

In Memoriam

Craig Louis Paul—what can one say. For the people who briefly knew him, for those who laughed with him and to those who loved him, this poem is dedicated to his memory.

Final Flight

I never meant to leave without saying goodbye
But my final flight was taking me so high
The stick was in my hand and the wings were at my command.
As I took that last flight
in the middle of the night.
The moon was at my back and the wind in my face
I was finally free as an eagle and the sky was my place
I can feel the wind and this is where I want to soar
Don't look for me now for I'm going higher once more
Don't be sad
and cry no more
For I'm freer now
than I've ever been before.
Remember our memories
without being blue
For there is peace in the sky—
for me, Cap'n Lou

Notes from the
Woodstock Historical Society

The progress of a Historical Society:

The Woodstock Historical Society was organized in November 1979. A year later Curator Larry Billings began a museum in the old elementary school annex. Eventually Annie Crockett agreed to sell the Society its present building and the museum was moved there in 1983. While the outside was in excellent condition, the interior of the museum required extensive renovation. The walls were redone in knotty pine by Elwood Wing. Electricity and heat, also a chemical toilet, were installed.

The building committee supervised all this and also put up bulletin boards and constructed shelves. The shelves for the archives were finished last year. This year carpeting was added. Meanwhile, the Society raised money, held dinners and variety shows (with the Grange), put on monthly programs and produced such things as stationery, pens, T-shirts, postcards and calendars. This year it has even started a book on the buildings of Woodstock. Certainly much has been done in nearly 10 years (we begin our 10th this November). The Woodstock Museum is a "place where the past is always present."

Do remember to visit the museum; and while you're there, purchase a calendar—they celebrate our 10th year.

W'stock Comprehensive Plan Committee meets

The Woodstock Comprehensive Plan Committee will meet Thursday, Aug. 4, at 7 p.m., to work on the topics of recreation, transporation and land use in the town. Interested people are welcome to add their input to the meeting.

The committee is finishing up its data collection process and starting its implementation of issues that will sustain the town as the people want it. Each month the group will discuss a different topic, addressing both the issues and the strategies to help the situation.

From the Bethel Area
Chamber of Commerce

Mollyockett Day thank-you's continue to those who helped with our activities other than the road race. Many thanks to the float committee: Edleen and John Winslow, Jeri Tate, Sandra Gunther and Becky Kendall. Also to lobster roll booth personnel: Doug Zinchuk, Tim and Lynn Hutchins, Bill Riley, Melinda Remington, Dick Fain, Jack Mahon, Paula Gillies and Barb Douglass. We couldn't have done it without you folks!

The Chamber is busy preparing for our attendance at the Eastern States Exposition in September. We are also continuing in our efforts to produce the first Bethel Area Business Directory. The Chamber Executive Board will meet today (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. at the Chamber office.

CARD OF THANKS

Preparing for Mollyockett day requires the help of many who are never mentioned. I wish to thank Chadbourne's Mill (flat bed), Western Maine Supply Co. (forklift), Sammy Chapman (sound system), Don Katlin (helping on sound), Sunday River Ski Area (tent), American Legion Auxiliary (grille), judges for the parade and fiddler's contest, who did such a good job, SAD 44 (dumpsters), Bethel House (piano), Town Crew (fence around fountain), the merchants of Bethel area for their generous gifts; to the many firemen from the outlying towns for participating in the parade. A special thanks to Rudy Royer who has helped organize and MC the fiddler's contest the past few years. If I have omitted anyone, please accept my thanks.
